

MEAT-FREE MONDAYS BELGIUM AT COP21 PARIS

MFM Belgium will be presenting at COP21 in Paris on 9th December.

The event will bring together leading climate science experts and Meat Free Monday campaigners from around the globe to discuss the impact of reducing meat consumption and therefore mitigating its impact on greenhouse gas (GHG) emissions and the environment.

We are often told to reduce our carbon footprint when we travel, but it is the meat industry that generates one fifth of all GHG emissions – far more than transportation. Meat consumption has grown exponentially since the 1960s and is projected to grow an additional 70-80% by 2050. This over consumption is having a huge impact on our natural resources: biodiversity, water, fossil fuels, land-use, forests, and also recently confirmed consequences for our health.

By having one meat-free day a week you would not only make a huge contribution to reducing your carbon footprint but also be introduced to new foods and exciting recipes that you may never have considered before. At the event we will be launching our Global Meat-free Mondays cookbook to help you on your way!

So come and join us on Wednesday, 9th December from 14.30-1900 in the Nelson Mandela Auditorium

We look forward to seeing you there!
